

is very much a social club. While model building is the main reason for becoming a member, the interactive side of meeting up and talking with others is also a major part of club life. There are members who probably only make one model a year, but attend every meeting for the social side. It was interesting to hear John and Chris say that they would be very happy as a club to put on a display at other gatherings, fetes and galas where they could help attract visitors. This would have a two-way effect of bringing people to the event and boost the host organisations as well as those interested in model building. As always, I am very grateful for the time that John and Chris gave me, and I wish them continued success in model making.

THE BELVOIR MODEL CLUB WOULD LOVE TO WELCOME NEW MEMBERS

There is no age limit and you don't have to already be a modeller to join.

There are no experts in this club, but it is one with people who enjoy the hobby of building models and equally enjoy the camaraderie that is so much a part of it. Do click on to the Facebook page or for more details and information make contact with John Tinkler on
